Asks About House.

The President asked first for the latest information on the political makeup of the house of representatives in the Sixtyfifth congress. He was told indications from present returns were that the Republicans would have 217 members and the Democrats 212, with six members of other parties

The President was understood to be much concerned over the makeup of the next house, chiefly because of its effect on the selection of the Speaker and chairmanships of committees which he is anxious to see in the hands of Democrats. As far as legislation is concerned, it was said today Mr. Wilson is confident that most measures to be proposed by him would gain the support of enough Republicans to carry them through.

ELECTION TABULATION WORK

Herman L. Conter, deputy to Homer L. Cook, secretary of state, said today that no commissions had been given candidates who were successful at the recent general election, but that they will be issued as soon as the official records of the elections all over Indiana can be completed. An extra effort is being made at this time, Mr. Conter said, to get the records in shape to issue commissions to a few of the judges in cases where terms A force of clerks is at work in the office A force of clerks is at work in the offices of the secretary of state, tabulating the official vote for various candidates. Some twenty-five or thirty counties have not sent in the official report of the canvassing boards on the presidential contest, and reports from some local election returns have not yet been received.

As Rapidly as Possible.

Mr. Conter said commissions to elected THOUSANDS OF UNEMPLOYED officers that must be given by the Governor, through the secretary of state, would be issued as rapidly as the official votes from each county could be tabulated and the commissions prepared. Governor Ralston has sent a letter to the attorneys for W. E.
